She also thanks to Prof. Rajiv Chopra Principal, IQAC Convener, teaching faculty, non-teaching staff and students for attending the event.

Giving the Introductory Speech, Dr. Poonam Rani, Librarian, Delhi College of Arts and Commerce stated that “National Library Day is celebrated in India on 12th of August every year in memory of the Birthday of Padmashree Prof. S.R. Ranganathan, the man who gave a lot of contribution in the field of Library & Information Science. This year this day is observed on the 132th Birth Anniversary of this great Professor who is also known as the Father of Library & Information Science. He was a great Mathematician and Librarian of the country and also pioneer in the Library Movement of our country. The main objective of National Library Day is to bring awareness to people about the importance of library in our daily life and to encourage teachers, students and all works of people by popularizing the library and its role in providing information to them and society as a whole. As a Librarian, it is our sole responsibility to honour such great man and his contribution towards the field of Library & Information Science of our country India.
